COUPON FORM
(Optional)

The use of coupons can be a very powerful marketing tool. Coupons in regional listings can be a way to entice potential customers.

Description: In the field labeled 'Description' enter a short description for the coupon you are about to create.

'Start Date' and an 'Expiration date':
Every Coupon has a 'Start Date' and an 'Expiration date'. This enables you to set special offers for a specific period, after which the coupon is not usable. The date fields are composed of three selection boxes. The first selection box represents the number of the day, the second is the month and the last selection box represents the year. The start date and the expiry date cannot be set in the past. (Please keep in mind if your coupon needs to be altered, an additional fee may apply.

Value
A coupon must be worth something to your customer; this discount value is known as the coupon 'value'. For coupons, the value can be set in terms of monetary amount or as a percentage amount. The final 'value' of the coupon will be in the same currency as the purchase transaction. For example if you sell your services in dollars then value of the coupon will be discounted in dollars.

To set the value of the coupon in monetary amount check the option labeled 'Coupon value as amount…….' and then put the actual value in the box below. For percentage amount click on the option labeled 'Coupon value as percentage….' This will reveal a new text box for you to type in the percentage.
